

Words of Wisdom

Heard at the recent IAP meeting:

“The MSC had to become the preferred ICT hub. This could be done by ensuring that its workforce, products and services were of high quality.”

Prime Minister
Datuk Seri
Abdullah Ahmad Badawi

“We need to teach schoolchildren about the value of ICT to usher in a new generation of ICT-savvy Malaysians. Only then would you see exponential growth in its use.”

Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak
Deputy Prime Minister

“The dynamism of the MSC plan has also made it an integral part of the national innovation system. And that is where the strength of the MSC truly lies.”

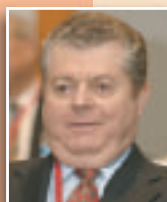

Bob Bishop
Silicon Graphics Inc Chairman and CEO

“One of the amazing features of the MSC is that it is not a static effort, and the vision continues to evolve.”

Prof Dennis Robertson
Illinois Institute of Technology
Vice-Provost for New Initiatives

“ MSC-status companies aspiring to go global must adhere to high standards in product development. High standards and improvement in efficiency level are the most important elements if they want to penetrate the global market as well as attracting more investments. ”

Dr Gilbert F Amelio
Sienna Ventures
Senior Business Partner

“ Unless we can bring ICT to the most remote corners of Malaysia, we will not reap its benefits... It's a great message for all developing countries. ”

Narayana Murthy
Infosys Technologies Ltd Chairman
(referring to the ICT for All theme)

“ The rollout (of the MSC) means we're talking about building a cybercountry. ”

Terry Cutler
Cutler & Co Managing Director

“ Dr Mahathir charmed us when we met for the first time in Stanford University, and I can say that we have also been charmed by Prime Minister Abdullah. ”

Robert Madge
ID Track President
(who has attended every IAP meeting since the first in 1997)
